PART 1: Comments

	Reviewer’s comment	Author’s Feedback (Please correct the manuscript and highlight that part in the manuscript. It is mandatory that authors should write his/her feedback here)
Please write a few sentences regarding the importance of this manuscript for the scientific community. A minimum of 3-4 sentences may be required for this part.	This manuscript provides valuable insights into the relationship between pupils' attitudes and their achievement in Yoruba oral poetry, a significant cultural and educational subject in Nigeria. The study is relevant as it contributes to the growing body of knowledge on the role of cultural engagement in educational outcomes. Given the importance of preserving indigenous languages and cultures, this research is especially significant for educational policymakers, language educators, and curriculum developers in Nigeria and other parts of Africa where oral traditions are integral to cultural identity. The findings emphasize the impact of positive attitudes on academic performance and suggest practical ways to improve learning experiences through culturally relevant teaching methods.
Is the title of the article suitable? (If not please suggest an alternative title)	Yes, the title accurately reflects the study’s focus on the connection between pupils' attitudes and their performance in Yoruba oral poetry. However, to make it more concise and focused, a slight revision could be considered: "The Impact of Pupils' Attitude on Achievement in Yoruba Oral Poetry"
Is the abstract of the article comprehensive? Do you suggest the addition (or deletion) of some points in this section? Please write your suggestions here.	The abstract is mostly comprehensive, clearly summarizing the study’s purpose, methodology, findings, and recommendations. However, a brief mention of the specific factors influencing pupils' attitudes (such as teacher methods, cultural relevance, and parental support) could provide additional clarity. It would also help to briefly highlight the significance of these findings within the larger context of Yoruba oral literature education.
Is the manuscript scientifically, correct? Please write here.	The manuscript is scientifically correct. The methodology, including the use of validated instruments and statistical analysis (Pearson correlation and t-tests), is sound. The results are presented clearly, with appropriate statistical support for the findings. However, the article could benefit from a deeper analysis of the causal mechanisms behind the relationship between attitude and achievement, including potential moderating variables like teaching style or classroom environment.
Are the references sufficient and recent? If you have suggestions of additional references, please mention them in the review form.	The references are generally sufficient and include seminal works in the field. However, some of the sources are somewhat dated, and the inclusion of more recent studies or research on indigenous languages, oral literature, and education in Africa could enhance the manuscript. A few more references on the psychological impact of cultural engagement on learning would also be valuable.

Is the language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?	The language is generally clear but occasionally lacks the polish expected for scholarly communications. Some sentences are awkward or redundant, and a more concise and formal tone would improve readability. Additionally, the grammar and structure could be refined, particularly in the introduction and conclusion, to ensure clarity and coherence.
Optional/General comments	The study offers a valuable contribution to the field of educational research, particularly in the context of indigenous African languages and oral literature. The manuscript could be strengthened by providing more context on how cultural relevance in teaching methods can be better implemented and by offering a more in-depth analysis of the practical implications of the findings. The overall structure is appropriate, but some minor revisions in language and clarity would improve the manuscript's overall quality.
